

WHAT MY LOVE IS.

My love is like a rose,
Blessed by the sun above,
Yet blossoms when winter knows
To take my love, as you do.
And when viles winter with the leaf
And the pink petals come to grief,
She still remains, she loves the rose.
My love hath blossomed like the snow,
Less cold and doubly fair.
When on earth's wintry floods must go,
When the world's dark clouds are ready,
And flowers spring to bless the sight,
Love rules the heart with added might.
She still remains, she loves the rose.
My love's dark eyes shine like a star
When the ruler day has fled
Aye, fairer far, thy avatars
Are all the world's best friends.
The star, that distant bides, is wise
To shrink from rivaling thy rays.
Stay, low, and shame the stars.
—L. Weston in "The Quilting Bee."

HARPOONING TARPOON.

A Royal Sport That Appeals to Both Hunters and Fishers.

A writer for Oulton tells about the sport of striking tarpon.

"For this," he says, "one uses a barbed iron called 'grains' or a short, light harpoon, known as a 'lily iron,' which is a wooden spear attached to a light pine pole, the striking pole, and is cast as a spear might be."

"The grains is a double pronged wrought iron instrument, the prongs usually not more than 3 or 4 inches in length, and from three-sixteenths to one-half inch wide. The points of the bars are sprung an inch from the delicately sharp, hardened points, having a spread of three-eighths of an inch and about 1½ inches space between the two.

The prongs are cut so that the points, while extending inward, are raised from the surface, thus giving the greatest holding power. The grains has also a tapered socket for the striking pole.

The lily iron is a far heavier instrument, and, unlike the grains, is capable of killing at a blow.

The upper sides of the lily iron are barbed to withstand a strain of over hundred pounds.

A heavier and sharper weapon is used to strike sword-fish, porpoises, as the former are dangerous creatures, unless hit mortally.

There are many 300 or 400 feet of steel wire line, three-eighths of an inch in diameter, and one of the ordinary fishing boats of the Florida coast and a guide.

"On approaching the tarpon run the sails and mast are stowed, and the guide uses a pole in the shallow water and hauls him ashore. A boat is being seen, the steerer indicated his direction.

Standing in the bow with widely spread legs, leaning well back, with poised spear, the man waits till he is within 30 feet, unless he is unusually powerful, then he leaps the water, which shoots him high into the air.

"The fish is anywhere from two to three feet beneath the surface of the water, and the spear is driven into the flesh, and the pole comes home to the surface, to be picked up when the tarpon makes its first rush. It is best to let the tarpon go without trying to stop it on the first rush, as the barbs may fall out. When the rush is over, the fish is held by the head of a hooked tarpon, but with a rush and surge. Then it bows the boat, if the fish is a 100 or 150 pounder, at a rapid rate. Sometimes the fish sinks and leaps, darting at the boat.

It takes about half as long to kill a tarpon with a spear, as with a hook, but it is a fierce fight while it lasts."

THE FIRST DIRECTORY.

Some Quaint Old-Time New York Buildings and Social Addresses.

In the first directory of New York city, which was issued in 1786, there are some peculiar and quaint entries. For instance, in those days it was not uncommon for medical practitioners to add their names to their addresses, as follows: "Samuel Broadhurst, physician and apothecary, 64 Queen (now Pearl) street."

Clergymen of that period were exceedingly precise regarding their titles. Thus, "Abraham Baché, reverend of the Church of Rome, 1 Beckman street."

Leon Rogers, tailor, of 55 Broadway, was described as a "breeches maker;" John Beau, 60 Broadway, as "surgeon and tooth puller;" S. Cryger, 69 Cherry street, as "prudent portly honest Dr. Dolephant, of 132 Queen street." "Quaker speaker;" D. Hitchcock, 89 Queen street, "house carpenter and undertaker;" John Hogland, 95 Queen street, "fiddler, etc." Henry H. Kip, 25 King street, "inspector of pot and pearl ash;" J. Parker, 7 Garden street, "starch and hair powder maker;" Samuel B. Webb, 29 Lower Dock street, "gentleman."

In those days, too, there were a great many "gentlewomen" and a few "wash-women." All teachers then were described either as "schoolmarm" or "schoolmistress." The retail dealers on Broadway and Wall and Queen streets called themselves "shopkeepers," the hotel men were "tavern keepers," and the policemen were "watchmen." —New York Post.

Where She Could Go.

The spinster on the platform grew more vehement. She drank two glasses of water from the big white pitcher and the table until the display of gaudy garments and ornaments was over.

"I thank heaven," she cried, "that I am free from all matrimonial chains; what use have I for a husband? I want neither a slave nor a tyrant. I am free—free as air. I can go and come as I please. No door is shut to me; no assembly hall, no theater, no social gathering to which I may not have free and unrestrained access!"

"General Grant always received an application for office as toasts to the Union. The Union are drunk—standing and in silence."

President Hayes listened for awhile, then broke out into lamentations that the attention of the president of the United States should be diverted from the great affairs of state to distribute to the poor."

Then he would make a memorandum in a little red book, which was to remind him not to do it.

General Garfield would put his arm around your neck, tell you how much he loved you and then forget what you had said.

President Arthur would listen with polite attention to all you had to say, then refer you to some man in New York whom you were never able to find.

President Harrison would sit down in his chair until you had presented the claims of your candidate and then the chair would drop.

President McKinley's methods have not been developed.—Chicago Record.

No Better, Evidently.

Nephew—Hello, uncle! How's the gout?

Uncle—How's the gout? Confound you! What's that infernal thing round your neck?

Nephew—Er—only my collar, sir, I believe.

Uncle—Bah! You look like a donkey looking over a whitewashed wall.—London Punch.

In winter when you see the wild geese fly south, according to new English books, they expect cold weather. They south because the ponds to the north are frozen over. When the geese are seen flying north in warm weather is to be expected.

pressed his desire in this issue of the ADVOCATE. This is a day when young men are called to the front, and Mr. White makes his bow and enters the race for preference, asking the Democrats to name him as their candidate.In this issue appears the announcement of R. A. Chiles for Judge of the City Police Court of this city, subject to the action of the Democratic party.
Mr. Chiles was reared in our midst and is a young man of ability. He is a lawyer and had much experience which with his natural abilities persuaded fit him for the office he seeks.Mr. John B. Phillips, who some months ago announced as a candidate for City Attorney, subject to the action of the Democratic party, would not have the people forget that he is a candidate not for the purpose of getting acquainted with people, but to secure the office. He promises his energy and ability if nominated and elected.Judge Ben J. Turner is a candidate for election to the office of Police Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Mr. Turner points with pride to his record as a Democrat and Judge and asks the people to consider his claims strictly according to merit and faithfulness to his party.ONE MOMENT We Sha'n't ***

Hunter's Failure.

The political outlook at Frankfort is not very encouraging in the Senatorial race. There seems to be aboutas much discord among the Republicans as among the Democrats last season when they failed to elect Jo.
Blackburn. The prophecy that Mr.
Hunter would be elected has thus far failed. On first ballot last Tuesday he received 66 votes and on second day he received 67 votes, since then he has not increased his vote. Yesterday he received only 58 votes, and the prospects for his election are vanishing.
His friends hope to bring to his rescue enough silver men to elect him. There have been rumors that Governor Bradley will be a candidate, and efforts are being made to induce Democrats to vote for him. The successful candidate must receive 70 votes. Joe Blackburn has been the favorite among the Democrats.The County Democratic Committee, after a vigorous effort Monday failed to decide who shall be our standard-bearer for Sheriff in the next November election. The "bone" of contentions seems to be "thin" as far as we can learn: In the Aaron's Run project the returns give Mr. Jones 136 on the duplicate held by the two Judges, Sheriff and Clerk, as required by law. Mr. Jones received 163 votes. The tally sheet also shows that he received 163 votes. Seven of the Committee demanded an investigation and a correction of the discrepancy before a final count shall be made. They hold that this is simple justice to Mr. Jones, and does not exceed the power of the Committee.The other seven demanded the count of the vote as indicated on the face of the returns, without investigation of this discrepancy and hold that the proposed action of the other seven would be injustice to Mr. McCormick, and exceeds the power of the Committee.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Miss Caroline Reid will on Friday evening entertain the Bon Tons.

Although the weather was unfavorable the church social given at the residence of Mrs. H. D. Clark on last Tuesday evening was well attended and well enjoyed.

The reception given on Wednesday of last week by Mrs. John G. Winn, at her pretty home on West High St., in honor of her sisters, Mrs. David Prewitt of Clark county and Mrs. Pierce Winn of this city, was, indeed, a most beautiful one. The parlor and dining room were decorated with ferns, palms, tulips, and hyacinths and lighted by a number of handsome lamps, whose soft light was mellowed and toned by delicately colored shades. The receiving party was composed of the hostess, Mrs. Winn, Mrs. David Prewitt, Mrs. Pierce Winn, and Mrs. Stanley Prewitt, of Clark county. The guests passed from the parlor to the dining room, where Mrs. J. A. Vansant and Mrs. John M. Elliott presided, and dainty and delicious refreshments were served by three charming young ladies.

The table with its large center piece of ferns, smilax and tulips, and beautiful china, cut glass and silver, was a thing of beauty. The reception was largely attended and all unite in pronouncing it a most delightful function.

Do not forget to look after your feather beds and have them converted into a new feather mattress.

Growing Children

One-third of all the children die before they are five years old. Most of them die of some wasting disease. They grow very slowly; keep thin in flesh; are fretful; food does not do them much good. You can't say they have any disease, yet they never prosper. A slight cold, or some stomach and bowel trouble takes them away easily.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphite is just the remedy for growing children. It makes hard flesh; sound flesh; not soft, flabby fat. It makes strong bones, healthy nerves. It changes children to childhood in great prosperity.

Ask about it for the asking. £10 No substitute for Scott's Emulsion will do for the children what we know Scott's Emulsion will do. Get the genuine.

McNULTY SHOWED HE HAD A RIGHT TO DRINK TO FORGET HIS WOE.

What have you to say, John McNulty? Officer Doyle says he found you drunk in a hallway at No. 113 Christopher street last night," said Magistrate Crane, in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday morning to a tall, angular prisoner.

"But obey the teachings of the Bible," pleaded the prisoner.

"I don't think you did," replied the Court, "for you were drunk."

"Please hand me that Bible, officer," said McNulty.

McNulty having obtained the Book turned to Proverbs and read:

"Give strong drink unto him that is ready to perish, and wine unto him that is heavy of heart."

"Let him drink and forget his poverty, and remember his misery no more."

"Discharged," was the brief command of the Court.

McNulty said that he had been educated in a theological seminary, but the drink had ruined him.

Sometimes the most careful woman is the most careless. Many a woman bundles herself up, to keep out sickness—when she is neglecting the very worst sickness that can come to a woman. She allows a short disorder to become worse, to slowly sap her vitality. The little pain and other slight indications of trouble seem to her unimportant. She goes on, with increasing suffering, until life itself becomes a drag. Nervousness, "drinking spells," digestive disturbances and fifty other complications may arise from the derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Over thirty years ago, the need for a reliable remedy for so-called "female complaints" was recognized by Dr. R. V. Pierce, then, as now, chief consulting physician to the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y. He prepared Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the most wonderfully effective remedy that has ever been used for such maladies.

Send 21 cents in one-cent stamps and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," illustrated.

Geo. M. Pullman, the famous manufacturer of Pullman palace cars and president of that company, passed through Lexington from Florida to his home in Chicago. He has spent several weeks in the "Land of Flowers," and is much improved in health.

In talking about his trip, Mr. Pullman said: "Business is improving throughout the country, and I see better times ahead for all sections. The South is the coming section of the country and will blossom into great prosperity during the next ten years unless all signs in the business world fall." He traveled in a very fine private car.

We believe that in making this request we are seeking the best welfare of the citizens, especially the youth of our land, who could not but be brutalized by such life-like representations of these degrading spectacles.

We learn that preparations upon the largest scale are being made for invading not alone our great cities, but every village and hamlet with this spectacular performance, so that, bad as was the influence of the fight upon the comparatively few who witnessed it in person, it would be infinitely worse, because so much more far-reaching if thus produced.

We are making a like request of chief officials and Legislatures of the various States, and have strong hope that, in the majority of them, the necessary legislation may result.

We are glad to feel assured at the outset that your personal sympathy must be with us, and that your official sanction will be given to this request, so clearly in the interest of morality.

Sincerely and respectfully yours,

"We earnestly entreat you to do all in your power to see that a bill is introduced into and carried through the Legislature of your state which shall prohibit the reproduction, by means of the kinetoscope or kindred instruments, of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight, or any like exhibition at any future time."

Then in conclusion: "We have already petitioned President McKinley to use his authority to prevent this in the District of Columbia and the Territories, and we are sending this letter to the Governors of the various States. May we not hope for your personal co-operation and earnest endorsement? We learn through the newspapers that Massachusetts and Illinois have already introduced bills prohibiting these exhibitions. BETTER PRICES FOR HORSES.

A vast improvement was seen in the prices of the horses sold by Peter C. Kellogg at Madison Square Garden, N. Y., on 24th. The major part of the day and evening was occupied in disposing of the consignment made by the Palo Alto Stock Farm, California, and these excited comparatively spirited competition, the average for the lot being $300. This of course being a small amount when the great expense of bringing the horses from the Pacific coast is considered, but nevertheless it was so great an improvement as to constitute a decidedly hopeful sign.

A Poland China boar sold for $3,000 at Jefferson, Iowa. This reminds one of the short-horn cattle craze. It will terminate in the same way.

Lead and zinc ore has been discovered on the farm of Distiller J. S. Searey, four miles from Lawrenceburg, and the mine will be fully developed at once. The main vein lies within a few feet of the surface, and from the report of J. L. Crook, who worked seven years in the Joplin, Mo., mines, it has zinc and lead ore in paying quantities. Mr. W. H. Searey, brother of the distiller, made the discovery, and he has leased the land to make a full investigation.

Leads a Chicago Real Estate Dealer to Attempt Suicide.

William Leland, real estate dealer, attempted suicide in the Woodlawn Police Station, Chicago, last week by hanging himself from the top of his cell by means of a sheet which he had twisted into a rope. He is not likely to recover. Leland was arrested at his own request, telling the police man that he had ruined himself by making a fraudulent real estate transaction. It is believed that he became mentally unbalanced through excessive use of cigarettes.

MR. ANDREW STEPHENS, who died at the home of his wife, R. P. Tyler, of Hickman, Ky., on Saturday the 20th instant, was an Uncle of Mrs. J. C. Thompson. He had been in poor health for quite awhile, having received several attacks of paralysis, and the announcement that he was dead was no surprise. Mr. Tyler was an excellent man, a gentleman with whom friends and strangers as well, delighted to meet and to converse. A great big hearted man who loved and was loved. His home paper, the Shelby Sentinel, speaking of him, says:

"Andrew Stephens was sixty-nine years of age and was born in this county. He had a host of friends, without a single enemy, and sincere sorrow will be felt in every community in this county, when the fact of his death will have become known.

He had lived nearly all of his life in Shelby county, and for eight years was Clerk of the County Court. He was honest, kind and sympathetic, a true friend, and no man in the county more thoroughly enjoyed the respect and esteem of our people.
